The Scandinavian Studies program is an interdisciplinary program that combines acquisition of the Norwegian or Swedish language with study of the diversity and richness of the greater Nordic cultural region of Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland, and Iceland. With a major or minor in Scandinavian Studies, students become familiar with the heritage of Scandinavia from the Vikings to modern design and learn more about the role of the Nordic nations in communications technology, environmental awareness, social equality, and international peace initiatives in the contemporary world. A Scandinavian Studies minor can enhance a traditional major and serve to internationalize students' education, whether in international relations or international business, art or literature. It is recommended that students combine a Scandinavian Studies major or minor with studies in fields such as art, international business, international relations, modern languages, political science, or social work.

The Scandinavian Studies Program involves MSU departments and programs including art, English, gerontology, international relations, law enforcement, mass communications, modern language, political science, and social work. In addition, MSU departments of computer and information sciences, international business, and social work have set up foreign exchange programs in Scandinavia. Additional courses, particularly for majors, may also be completed in language, literature, history, and peace studies at Gustavus Adolphus College in nearby St. Peter, Minnesota. MSU students carrying 12 semester credits may pay MSU tuition to take a course at Gustavus Adolphus College that is not offered at MSU.

SCANDINAVIAN STUDIES BA

The Bachelor of Arts major in Scandinavian Studies requires 32 semester credits, including a core of language courses (usually at least two years), a 3-credit "capstone" experience, and approved electives. Students interested in focusing on Scandinavian languages and literature may choose to major in Scandinavian Studies, but they are strongly encouraged to pursue a second major in another BA program or even two minors that will complement students' interdisciplinary studies. One minor is required. Majors will work closely with a Scandinavian Studies advisor to develop a course of studies that offers flexibility to suit students' needs and interests.

SCANDINAVIAN STUDIES MINOR

A minor in Scandinavian Studies requires 20 semester credits and can be completed at MSU. The core of at least 8 credits in Norwegian or Swedish language is supplemented by a 1-credit “capstone” experience plus approved electives. This interdisciplinary minor can be combined with any major at MSU. Because the minor is tailored to the individual interests, students should consult the Scandinavian Studies program director as well as the major advisor.
