The field of Gerontology focuses upon the scientific study of the biological, psychological and social aspects of human aging and the application of this knowledge in the service of older adults. The Gerontology Program coordinates the delivery of the gerontology curriculum and conducts programs including the undergraduate Minor in Gerontology, the Master of Science in Gerontology, the Graduate Certificate of Study in Gerontology, and an approved course of study for nursing home administration licensure. The Gerontology Program also cooperates with the MSU Center on Aging and the Minnesota Area Geriatric Education Center South on continuing education, research and resource development. Minnesota State University, Mankato is a member of the Association for Gerontology in Higher Education. All programs require registration with the Gerontology Program director.

GERONTOLOGY MINOR

Required Total: 18 credits

* Appropriate substitutions for required core or elective courses can be negotiated with the Director of the Gerontology Program.

- I. All Gerontology minors must take GERO 200 Aging: Interdisciplinary Perspectives (3)
- II. Minors must also take 3 out of the following 4 core categories (9 core credits):

SOC	404	Sociology of Aging (3)
PSYC	466	Psychology of Aging (3)
HLTH	455	Health and Aging (3) OR
BIOL	417	Biology of Aging and Chronic Diseases
POL	464	Aging Policy (3)
- III. Minors must also complete at least 6 credits of electives, to be chosen from among the list of aging-related, elective courses already approved by the Gerontology Program. Any core course that a student does not count as part of his/her 3 core categories may also be taken and counted as an acceptable elective. A 3-credit aging-related internship can be done as an elective as well. Additionally, students who complete an internship for their major with an older population can use that internship to satisfy both the requirement for their major and for 3 elective credits in the Gerontology minor.

Approved Electives for Minor:

To be selected from Gerontology Courses—specific courses offered by particular department and/or courses offered by the Gerontology Program.
